Zealot's Flechette Launcher

Type: Weapon (Explosives)

Category: Explosives Launcher

Size: 2 slots

Cost: 23,500 cr

Item Aspect/Upgrade Slots:

- 1 slot allowing Explosive Launcher Modification

The Zealot's Flechette Launcher is a custom designed anti-personnel projectile launcher based off of the FC-1 Flechette Launcher. It is smaller than the FC-1, featuring a midnight black metal shell emblazoned with the Collective logo on the side of the barrel. This weapon holds four of the explosive canisters containing hundreds of pieces of durasteel that can be launched accurately up to medium range. It is excellent for eliminating large groups, but dangerous to the user at close ranges. It is carried by the soldiers of the Liberation Front during their fight against all Force users.

Zealot's Armor

Type: Armor

Category: Medium Armor

Base Cost: 11,000 cr

Item Aspect/Upgrade Slots:

-1 slot allowing Armor Cosmetic

-1 slot allowing Armor Resistance Modification or Armor Modification

The Zealot's Armor is the standard armor worn by the soldiers of the Liberation Front. It was produced using the same cosmetic template as the armor used for the Stormtroopers of the Galactic Empire, but features two key cosmetic differences. The armor is a dull-blue in color, and both shoulders feature a gold Collective logo. The Zealot's Armor has been upgraded with advanced optics, and more resilient plating. The new optical system provides the user with assisted target tracking to help with combating faster opponents, while the sturdier plating doubles the protection offered by standard Stormtrooper Armor.

Zealot Datapad

Type: Equipment

Category: Electronics

Size: 1 slot

Cost: 1,150cr

The Zealot Datapad is a cutting-edge pocket-sized computer developed by the Collective for its footsoldiers. It has a screen, with two input slots and a single button. It is capable of almost any function you would find on a full size computer, and is loaded with anti-Force user and anti-Jedi tactics.
